REPUBLICANS PRACTICALLY ARE UNANIMOUS FOR TOM CAMPBELL FOR GOVERNOR

There has seldom been a more spontaneous demonstration of enthusiasm than that which was evidenced at the Republican State Convention held in Prescott on July 6, when the name of Tom Campbell, as candidate for governor, was suggested.

All minor differences were laid to one side and the delegates joined as a man in cheers that lasted several minutes. Every county in the state was represented. The big counties all had a very large part of their representation in person, and every delegate not only pledged himself but his county to use all possible efforts to bring out every bit of Republican strength for Campbell.

Mr. Campbell himself was in Prescott and acted as floor manager at the dance and reception that was given to the delegates at the Yavapai Club on Thursday evening. This was simply because he was the best man fitted for the job.

At the picnic given for the delegates and their wives at Granite Dells the next day, when it became necessary to secure concerted action among those present, the management once more found it necessary to turn to Tom Campbell to actively direct affairs. This was because he was the man best fitted for the job.

Jobs Seek the Man

Ever since his boyhood, Tom Campbell has been turned to because of his forceful personality and kindly but thorough earnestness. And the number of things big and little that he has been able to accomplish would even now be ample record that would be a credit to any "big" man. Under the circumstances, both his friends and Mr. Campbell realize that the accomplishments of the past have been merely a training for the bigger work of the present. The man who is not "too big" to do little things well is the man who is most likely to be able to accomplish big things when opportunity extends the chance for big leadership.

Mr. Campbell's friends feel that he has more than a good chance of election without regard to who the Democratic nominee may be. They base their belief upon the following facts:

Basis of Their Hopes

First—Republicans of all factions are united under the leadership of Hughes for President.

Second—The people of the southwest and particularly the men of Arizona feel that the attitude of the Democratic administration has been responsible for much of the loss of life and property that has been suffered in Mexico, and for this reason if for no other, many young men, who under ordinary circumstances would be voting the Democratic ticket, will not vote for Mr. Wilson. Most of these same men will feel a personal interest in the success of Tom Campbell who represents the kind of courage and direct honesty that appeals very strongly to young Americans who have not become so partisan as to be unwilling to use their own judgment in regard to candidates rather than accept unquestioningly the dictates of the managers of their party organization.

Third—As assessor of Yavapai county and as tax commissioner for the State of Arizona, Mr. Campbell has established the fact that he can be counted upon to be fair to ALL classes of taxpayers and give them a square deal. As a result the big mining companies, especially those of the south, do not favor Mr. Campbell's election. They oppose his mine tax policies. They want the biggest end of things, rather than a square deal. This is always true of big capital. Under the circumstances, Mr. Campbell is making his campaign without regard to the big mining interests and his election as governor will be a tribute to his strength and honesty as a man from the great mass of the citizens of the State.

Big Interests Properly Taxed

When Tom Campbell was made assessor of Yavapai county, the entire assessment of Yavapai was less than $10,000,000. During the six years in which he occupied this office, the assessments of the various interests were raised until the valuations totaled more than $43,000,000. The United Verde mine and its allied interests were assessed for nearly twice of what the valuation of the entire county had been when Mr. Campbell was made responsible for the assessments.

It is needless to say that at first the management of the United Verde mine opposed these various increases bitterly. It was not long before they realized that Mr. Campbell was absolutely honest and fair in his work and was not "playing to the gallery." It is worthy of comment that among his staunchest personal friends now, some of whom are among the warmest supporters for his candidacy for governor, are men who direct the interests of Senator Clark in Arizona.

Campbell a Cattleman

All the cattlemen of Yavapai county are for Tom Campbell. They recognize the fact that he is one of them.

Mr. Campbell was really born in the cattle business. Ever since his early manhood, the cattle business has been the basis upon which he has worked, and at the present time he runs a large ranch with his brother, J. K. Campbell on the head of the Verde in Yavapai county.

Mr. Campbell's initiative and quick perception is recognized by the cattle men who know that he has been able to help secure much legislation in their interests. It was largely through him that the present organization of the cattlemen was brought about in Yavapai county, and even now the organization insists upon carrying him as one of its executive officers.

Mr. Campbell is also one of the executive officers of the Arizona Cattle Growers' Association. He was chosen by this organization as one of their representatives to the last two meetings of the National Live Stock Association.

These facts mean that the election of Mr. Campbell would be of vast advantage to the cattlemen and their allied interests. It would mean that when they went to Phoenix, they would have a governor who would be interested in the things that they might ask. If these things were unwise, the governor would tell them so frankly. If, on the other hand, the things desired were desirable, they would know that the whole influence of the governor would be turned towards helping satisfy their needs.

Has Large Mine Interests

Naturally, since Mr. Campbell is a Yavapai man, he has been interested in mining. Even now he has considerable interests in several important properties. It is worthy of note that since 1898, Mr. Campbell, personally, has been responsible for bringing to Arizona in the neighborhood of a million dollars of foreign capital which has been used in developing various mining properties in different parts of the state. He was a pioneer in the mining development of the Verde district, basing his hypothesis of mining conditions upon the major fault which has now proven so valuable in the Verde Extension and adjacent properties. Every man who has ever worked with or for Tom Campbell in any of his mining ventures, is still his friend. This speaks volumes for Campbell's honesty and fairness.

In spite of his other interests, Mr. Campbell has always been active in politics. This was due very largely because his friends had discovered that he was one of the kind of men who did things. When there was something to be done that required courage, energy and perseverance they turned to Tom Campbell and did so with the confidence that he would fight just as hard, if not a little harder, when the chances for winning were very small.

The respect and regard with which Mr. Campbell is held in his home district was splendidly evidenced by the majority he received as candidate for State Tax Commissioner, when practically the entire county turned out for him without regard to politics. It is expected that his home people will do even better for him at the election in the fall, since his friends feel sure that he will make just as fine a record as governor as he has in every other public office to which he has been entrusted.—Yavapai Magazine.

Girl Hikers Set Out On Hike to Last Three Years

Somewhere in Arizona, without the pale of civilization, are the three intrepid girls who left the Phoenix Republican office at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon on the aforementioned hiking tour. They are Neva and Jennie Lewis and Lucille Riddle, all of Mesa.

Announcing their intention of making Peoria by nightfall, the trio posed for their pictures and tramped away, west on Adams street. They carried all the equipment previously described, excepting the bulldog, that part of their outfit proving unobtainable at the last moment. "We'll pick up a good dog along the road somewhere," optimistically said Miss Jennie.

The route of the walk lies north to the Grand Canyon, thence west into California, with San Francisco as one of the principal stops in that large and golden state. But the tour from there will cover the wide west, according to the girls' plans, and there is no special map thereof. They expect to be gone three years, by which time the youngest will have attained her twenty years and the oldest her majority.

WASHOUT CAUSES WRECK ON PEAVINE

In the second spectacular wreck within a year on the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Sunday morning about 7 o'clock, train No. 15, Los Angeles to Phoenix, in charge of Conductor J. C. Graves and Engineer Wm. Delano, hit a weak bridge near Nada, about thirty-five miles north of Phoenix, and practically the whole train was demolished, but by some miracle or other, no one was killed. Minor injuries were received by some of the thirty-three passengers, none necessitating the attention of a surgeon.

The train, which was due at 7:35 p. m., was not running very fast at the time of the accident. The first intimation that the passengers had that anything was wrong was when, with a terrific crash, the Pullman which was attached behind a chair car, was completely doubled up. The chair car was badly smashed.

Anna had a lovely chair Marked Chippendale; but pish! That thing was turned out last year At old Grand Rapids, Mich.

NEW LAW OF INTEREST UNSURVEYED LAND SETTLERS

The following law authorizing leave of absence to homesteader settlers upon unsurveyed lands has been enacted by congress and approved by the president:

"Any qualified person who has heretofore or shall hereafter in good faith make settlement upon and improve unsurveyed unreserved unappropriated public lands of the United States with intention, upon survey, of entering same under the homestead laws shall be entitled to a leave of absence in one or two periods not exceeding in the aggregate five months in each year after establishment of residence; Provided, That he shall have plainly marked on the ground the exterior boundaries of the lands claimed and have filed in the local land office notice of the approximate location of the lands settled upon and claimed, of the period of intended absence, and that he shall upon the termination of the absence and his return to the land file notice thereof in the local land office.

Official Warning to Speeders

Flagstaff has an ordinance pertaining to the regulation of street traffic; among the more important provisions of which relate to automobiles, such as speeding, failure to display lights and neglect to use mufflers.

Failure to comply with these provisions, or any one of them, is liable to result in injury to the occupants of the car as well as to pedestrians and teams.

The public is generally, and especially owners and drivers of cars, are hereby warned that, hereafter, these provisions will be strictly enforced, and offenders will be called to account, and fined in such sums as the circumstances in each case may seem to justify.

Give Her Something to Do

Not far from Bath, a certain villager went to a lady who kept poultry to purchase a setting of eggs. The lady, not having many on hand, inquired:

"Have you got your broody hen?"

"Well, no," replied the villager, "but our old hen has broken her leg and I thought she might as well spend her time hatching out some eggs as sit about doing nothing!"

Half as Bad

One of the clerks at the weather bureau recently took upon himself a wife, and it has been his endeavor to interest her in his work at the office.

The other evening, on coming home, he said: "It was a terrible storm that swept through Jersey. The wind blew sixty miles an hour for thirty minutes."

"Well, dearie," said his wife, anxious to show an intelligent interest in the matter, "it's lucky, isn't it, that it blew only half an hour."

"Why?"

"Well, thirty minutes isn't nearly so bad."
